AWARDS & ACCOLADES

2017 ~ 90 Points. "Slightly robust for pinot noir, but this has generous, youthful forest-berry aromas, a rather sleek body, some smoky character and quite crisp acidity at the finish. Drink now. Screw cap." - James Suckling, Apr/2019

2015 ~ 94 Points. - Tim Atkin MW, Chile Special Report 2018

2015 ~ 91 Points. - Descorchados 2018

2014 ~ 91 Points. "A dark color and leathery, spicy, musky aromas lead to a medium to full palate with boldness and balance. Spiced cherry and black-plum flavors are lasting on a finish in which moderately complex fruit and spice flavors fade away with grace." - Wine Enthusiast, Mar/2018

OTHER INFO

T.H. stands for Terroir Hunter. The grapes were sourced from a selected 2.97-hectare plot in the Leyda appellation, the well-known southern sub-region of San Antonio, 14 kilometres from the Pacific Ocean. Cooled by the South Pacific breezes and coastal summer fog that often lasts until mid day, the Leyda Valley climate extends the growing season, as its average summer maximum temperatures rarely exceed 25C, ensuring slow ripening and the development of intense, fresh flavours and aromas. Located to the west of the coastal mountain range, the soils of the Leyda Valley developed directly from the granite rock on the coastal batholith formed 200 million years ago during the Jurassic period.
